

The Hatchetmen, CDr (2004)

Weather Records WR008

Iain McIntyre, Guitar/vocals
Mark Parsons, Drums
Gavin Sullivan, Moog (live)

Formed during the European summer of 2004, The Hatchetmen were made up of Iain McIntyre (ninety-nine, Thee Stag Knights) on guitar and vocals and Mark Parsons (Millions of Thatcher's Victims) on drums, with occasional live assistance from Gavin Sullivan on Moog.

Having previously played together in Europe in 1997 and 1999 with bands Kokoshkar and The Authentics and also in Melbourne in 2003 with The Gay Bushrangers, Mark and Iain decided to take a mixture of new and old tunes out on the road touring the Netherlands and recording some songs on a rickety 4 track at Rock Bottom studios in London.

Out of those sessions and a live recording from their Amsterdam support show for the UK's Subhumans, emerges their self titled EP on Weather Records (home to The Stabs, HVIII, Panel of Judges and the Wild About You CD) which features seven tracks of loud garage rock with lots of shouting.

The Hatchetmen's self titled debut EP is now available from Missing Link & Cumbersome Records or as free MP3 downloads from www.weatherrecords.org

Email Iain: questionmark01@yahoo.com.au

“...helping to create a world of indifference...”

www.weatherrecords.org

thebored@weatherrecords.org